PRESS RELEASE

BluePrint Automation acquires Jongerius Hanco B.V. in Amersfoort, The Netherlands

On June 25th 2021, Jongerius Hanco B.V., located in Amersfoort The Netherlands, has been acquired by the BluePrint Automation (BPA) Group. Martin Prakken, CEO of the BPA Group: "Both companies are very excited about this acquisition. The Jongerius Hanco product portfolio is an extension of the BPA product range especially in the snackfood market and in particular for variety multi-packs in plastic PE-bags. Jongerius Hanco will benefit from the strong worldwide base of BPA in sales- and service support."

Jongerius Hanco BV is the leading supplier of multipackaging (bag-in-bag) systems in the secondary packaging industry worldwide. The company provides tailor made solutions and works closely together with her customers to boost production capacity, improve quality and increase output efficiency. Jongerius Hanco has exported its machines to over 50 countries worldwide.

With its wide range of bag-in-bag solutions and their complementary seal-checking devices, Jongerius Hanco is the perfect extension to the case-packing solutions of BluePrint Automation. Jongerius Hanco will continue activities as an independent entity, within the worldwide BluePrint Automation organization.

About BluePrint Automation:
For over 40 years, BluePrint Automation provides case packers and tray packing solutions for flexible and other tough-to-handle packages such as doypacks, pillow bags and four-sided sealed bags. Built for around the clock operation, these solutions have a worldwide reputation for their quick change-over, flexibility, speed and comprehensible design. Integrated state of the art technologies include gravity, pick and place, wrap around and vision-guided robotics.

NOTE VOOR THE EDITOR – not for publication.
For more information, please contact Karin van Staveren, telephone +31 348 410 999, marketing@blueprintautomation.nl.

BluePrint Automation B.V.
Carrosserieweg 3
3445 BC Woerden, The Netherlands
www.blueprintautomation.com